Dual Time GMT Resonance Manufacture Edition Meteorite
Not of This World. Very Much in Its Element.

A Natural Choice.

Some materials don't need much help making an impression. Meteorite is one of them. For this edition of the Dual Time GMT Resonance, Armin Strom has chosen natural meteorite for both dials, allowing the stone's own texture and shades of grey to set the tone. Its naturally occurring colour complements the stainless steel case, creating an almost monochromatic look in which the different surfaces work together rather than compete for attention. Rose gold coloured hands and indexes provide just enough warmth to break up the grey, without taking anything away from the meteorite.

And because meteorite is a natural material, no two dials will have exactly the same pattern. Each watch carries a detail that cannot be reproduced by design.

The Science of Staying in Sync.

The manual-winding manufacture calibre ARF22 is entirely designed, developed and produced in-house by Armin Strom. Its patented resonance clutch connects two independent regulating systems, allowing the balance wheels to synchronise through the physical phenomenon of resonance. This continuous interaction improves chronometric stability, turning a scientific principle into a practical advantage on the wrist.

Each time zone has its own hours, minutes and day/night indicator, allowing two different times to be read independently. Operating at 3.5 Hz (25,200 vph) and offering a 42-hour power reserve, the ARF22 combines Armin Strom's approach to resonance with a complication designed for everyday use.

Nature Has Its Patterns. So Do We.

The movement tells a different story of craftsmanship. Complementing the natural patterns of the two dials, the carefully decorated components reveal the work carried out by Armin Strom's watchmakers. Hand-bevelled and polished edges, black-polished screws, perlage and circular graining reflect the traditional decoration of the movement. Nature takes care of the pattern. Armin Strom takes care of the precision. Every Armin Strom watch is assembled twice – once to make it work, and once to make sure it works exactly as it should.

From outer space. Down to 15 pieces on Earth.
